Our Dead.

Appropriate and very feeling references were made in our churches yesterday, to our two dead citizens. In prayer and address, Dr. Mead was most tenderly and affectionately referred to.

Obituary.

Death of James Mallory.

Dr. J., at his residence in Norwalk, on Thursday last, JAMES MALLORY, in the 81st year of his age. He was born in Norwalk July 10, 1789, and for a generation was a prominent and active business man and always a respect of the place of which he stood. As twelve years of age he entered his father's store as a clerk, the edifice standing on the corner where the Cousins shoe factory building crosses down towards the Pottery. He remained as clerk in his father's country store till he was twenty-one. On reaching his majority he started a similar one on 110½ Broadway, on the old building standing on the site of that now occupied by Mr. Bissler. From this site the old store was moved to the lot where now stands the blacksmith shop just north of Quinlan's block, on Knight street. While conducting this store, on the 13th day of January, 1830, at twenty-one years of age, he was married to Miss Rebecca Fitch, daughter of Jonathan Fitch, of Norwalk, who still survives him. He also formed a partnership in the year 1831, with our venerable Town Treasurer, Mr. Eli B. Bennett, who was then carrying on the same line of trade in a store adjoining—on the present site—Lockwood's Hall. In 1834 this partnership was dissolved and he again continued the store alone till 1840. He then formed a partnership with Mr. Wm. K. Lewis, who had previously been his clerk, and closing out his general stock of hardware, groceries, crockery, country produce, and dry goods, as constituted the modern "country store" of the olden time, the new firm confined itself exclusively to dry goods. This partnership continued a full quarter of a century, when Mr. Mallory in 1864 sold out to Mr. Lewis and retired, to quietly enjoy the comfortable competence his sagacity and prudence had secured him. At the time of his death, he was Director and Secretary of the Union Manufacturing Company of this place. He instinctively shrank from all official positions or public notoriety. His family was all the world to him—The source of his highest joy and his chief pride. Rigidity exact and severely close to a fault he was, but he was generous to a fault in his heart. He was a man of great business, and in all these great number of years he was never known to have a week of sickness. Always active and careful and free from any disease or ailment, he grew up with a firm and firm physical constitution. In his younger days, he had a few extraneous expectations nearly round out his life.

He was successful; his spirit gladdened with some of his goodness every day. And watched by eyes that loved him, calm and serene. Faithful to the last of his life, he died cheerfully, his soul being at ease, and went to share the holy rest that awaits a life well spent. Our community was startled on Thursday afternoon last by the announcement of the decease of the aged Rector of St. Paul's church. His name has been a household word in our homes for more than a generation—and although of late years he has occasionally heard that he was sick, yet it was very difficult to realize that Dr. Mead was dead. "I am immortal till my work is done," he was accustomed to say, and there was much of meaning in the expression as he uttered it. He was immortal—full of zeal and force until the end. His last day on earth was spent in duty. That partially written manuscript commenced only a short time before he died. Those words of instruction to his assistant on the very morning of his death, permeating the very morning of a visit in a remote portion of the parish, sending a message of love to an afflicted member of his communion nearer home, and deliberating how he might secure to another the advantages of intellectual culture, also the advantages of an after-dinner drive, as a preparation, perhaps, for an afternoon and evening of labor in his study and at his books' store. Dr. Mead was immortal, was unflinching and untiring, was faithful to the end. His life—no one can write it—who is filled in and filled up with deeds which men may have known by little or two, but which the angels saw and which God applauds. His parish, his diocese, and the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States are bereaved. A good man has fallen, and further a great man has fallen. Dr. Mead was a man of extraordinary natural gifts and untiring diligence in the cultivation of them from his youth up, it proved by the fact that he took a prominent place in the councils of the church at a very early period of his ministerial career. Less than three years after his ordination to the Deaconate, we find him recording the minutes of the annual conference of the Diocese of Pennsylvania, and the trusted friend and confidential adviser of Bishop White. In 1832 we see him wielding an influence in the General Convention which far older men than he was then, might well have been proud. Not the least among the services which he rendered to the church at that session, was the work that he did in common with the other members of the committee appointed for that purpose, in revising the Hymnology of the church, the result of their joint labors in this direction being the admirable collection of hymns attached to the Prayer Book. Forty-five years consecrated to the service of his church, his diocese, and his country, and in all these years he was never known to have a week of sickness. Always active and careful and free from any disease or ailment, he grew up with a firm and firm physical constitution. In his younger days, he had a few extraneous expectations nearly round out his life.

To the W. M. Wardens and Brethren of St. John's Lodge, No. 6, F. and A. M. Your committee on whom was referred the report of the venerable and departed Brother Wm. Mead, beg leave fraternally to submit the following for your consideration and action. That the Board of Managers of this lodge, in accordance with the resolutions of the Grand Lodge, Fraternity, etc., do hereby resolve that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the Board of Managers of St. John's Lodge, Fraternity, etc., for their consideration and action.

Obituary.

A telegram was yesterday received in this city announcing the death of Rev. William Mead, D. D., at his residence in Norwalk, Conn., on the 21st inst. He was born in Norwalk, Conn., on the 10th of July, 1789. He was educated in the common schools of his native town, and attended the common schools of New Rochelle, Westchester county, New York. After entering the ministry he served the churches of St. Paul, in Norwalk, and of St. James, in New Rochelle, for several years. He was then called to the charge of the church of St. Paul, in Norwalk, where he remained for ten years. He was then called to the charge of the church of St. James, in New Rochelle, where he remained for three years. Stores to Close.

Several of our leading merchants have proposed to close their stores between the hours of two and three o'clock on Tuesday, the 27th inst., on the occasion of the funeral of the late Rev. Wm. Mead, D. D. It is deemed a fitting tribute of respect to the memory of one of Norwalk's oldest merchants.

Around the World with Gen. Grant.

One of the most beautiful and attractive works ever issued from the American press is that which is now being published in numbers by the American News Company of New York, and with the above title. The numbers already delivered give evidence of what the work will be, and it is not too much to say that it is one of the most beautiful and attractive works ever issued from the American press. The work is published in numbers, and each number contains two full pages and 32 or more other engravings executed in the best style of art. There is also a steel plate portrait of Grant by Marshall. To Bedding Groves.

On Wednesday, the South Norwalk Congregational Church and Sunday School will hold their annual Pic-nic. They make a decided change in the programme this year, and instead of going East in a Steambath, they will invade the country going to the Pickering Grove in Bedding. The ride over the new road will be very pleasant, and the grove is reported to be an excellent place for such gatherings. Special cars will be provided, and the fare for the round trip has been put at the low rate of thirty cents so that all can afford to attend and enjoy the occasion.

Cruise of the Neptune Club.

The Neptune club have secured the schooner yacht Samuel D. Barnes, as intimated in our last, and it will be this week to be put in readiness for the reception of the club. The time of sailing is next Monday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, from Hill's wharf, up town. We give below the full list of officers and members enrolled up to the present time. As usual the list embraces the names of many gentlemen from abroad, probably attracted by the fine reputation enjoyed by the club in the past.

BROAD RIVER. The farmers are happy. The hay and grain are harvested, corn plowed and ready for the plow, and nothing else to do but cutting a few bushes, etc., until 'cutting' corn.

WILTON. Real live items are scarce. The public school, at Cannon's, Mr. H. N. Seelye teacher, closed last week.

WESTPORT. There were three cases of sunstroke, some of them fatal, one day last week. Each of the three victims was in a hardy and considered proof against the effects of the heat.

WESTPORT. During the week our river has been subjected to a cruel scraping by a class of men, not of Westport, who make their living by buying scalps and bedding them.

WESTPORT. Mowing machines are unmerciful "critters." Recently while running his "hay-maker" in a heavy piece of timber on the Comstock peak, Mr. Wm. McCallum ran over a turkey sitting on a nest of eggs, and so cut off both her feet at the first joint.

WESTPORT. Mr. Ralph Kellogg one of our (sand) bank directors, has been off visiting in the city for a few days.

WESTPORT. The public school, at Cannon's, Mr. H. N. Seelye teacher, closed last week.

WESTPORT. The writer overheard a Redding man speaking of our poor roads in language more forcible than elegant; it must be admitted however, that he had some ground of provocation.

WESTPORT. We will soon see the farmer in company with his mules, his sons, and his cousins' journeying towards "salt water," and probably he will enjoy of these trips fully as well as some of the more wealthy do at the season at some pretentious watering place.

WESTPORT. Mr. John Cannon is spending his vacation beneath the parental roof tree.

WESTPORT. The Mission Band meets in the lecture room on Friday evening next.

DARLEN. There was an interesting temperance meeting at the Methodist Church last Wednesday evening week. A paper was prepared by Mrs. Gleason and another by Mrs. Mead which were listened to with great interest.

DARLEN. Mr. Bradford gave two able and eloquent discourses at the Congregational church on Sunday week. His audiences were very large and attentive.

DARLEN. The little son of Mr. Samuel Fitch, of Oxford, who some time ago had the misfortune to break his leg, has so far recovered as to be able to get about on crutches.

DARLEN. The funeral services of Mrs. John Whaley were held at her late residence on Sunday afternoon.

WEST STRATFORD. Wednesday last was the hottest day of the season. At 3 p. m. the thermometer registered 88° in the shade, but the shower which came in the evening cooled the air and we have been having delightful weather since.

WEST STRATFORD. Owing to the unfavorable state of the weather on last Wednesday evening no meeting of the Court of Burgesses was held and consequently our statesmen will have to keep their eloquence bottled up till some future time.

WEST STRATFORD. The case of Thomas Kearns who was arrested last Sunday week was nolleed for want of evidence. In regard to the treatment of Mr. Kearns (by some of the members of his family) which we mentioned in our issue of the 7th inst., a diligent inquiry among those calculated to know the facts has satisfied us that the treatment he has received was disgraceful.

WEST STRATFORD. Mr. G. R. Warner has returned from a visit to Collinsville looking as fresh and smiling as ever.

WEST STRATFORD. The annual election of officers of the Westport Savings Bank will take place July 29th.

DEAR GAZETTE:—The enclosed lines were handed to me by a clerical friend whose parish is in another State, with the suggestion that, if I should deem it worthy, I should give them to you.

I am with thee, I am with thee, I will keep thee, I will keep thee, Through the valley of the shadow, Through the darkness of the grave.

"I am with thee," He hath said it; "Therefore be thou not afraid, I, who love thee, though I truly, I have the heavy burden of my cross, I have died for you, my children."

"I am with thee, with thee always," He hath said it, He will guide us, He will watch us, He will guide us, He will watch us, He will guide us, He will watch us.

There, amid the bliss of Heaven, Will He wipe all our tears away, Will He be lost in perfect day, Over past the rocky shore, Over past the rocky shore.

Gen. Grant in Canton—A Scene of Oriental Splendor. Mr. Young writes to the New York Herald of the reception of General Grant in Canton: I have seen some extraordinary sights that now and then I dwell upon as a part of the pageantry of memory.

After she had been a little while her mother said, "I suppose I may just as well go out, make that fire and put on the tea."

"Oh, mother! I am so glad you have come out, for I am sure I never can get this fire to burn, but I think I can set the table."

"You may as well give up, for I have no doubt she would be better than that, and I have no doubt she would be better than that, and I have no doubt she would be better than that."
