

At Last.

When on his way of life the night is falling, And in the winds from unassuming spaces...

I hear voices out of darkness calling My feet to paths unknown.

Then who has made my home of life so pleasant, Leave not its tenant when its walls decay...

Be near me when all else is from me drifting, Earth, sky, home's pictures, days of shade...

I have but Thee, O Father! Let thy spirit be with me then to comfort and uphold...

Some sheltering shade where sin and striving cease, And flows forever through heaven's green expansions...

There, from the music round about me stealing, I find myself learn the new and holy song...

The life for which I long, John Greenleaf Whittier in Atlantic.

On entering, he called out, "Hello, Carrie, what's that?"

"Only a little purchase that I made yesterday," said his wife.

"But what in the world is it meant for?" he asked.

"Let me explain it to you, Charles," said his wife, playfully.

"So you are talking to hearing, Carrie. Has my little wife become a miser?"

"Very well, that will be easy enough; a quarter of a dollar is not great sum."

"What I drop a quarter of a dollar into this new-fangled invention of yours?"

"I am very well aware that what you say is true," said his wife, smiling.

"This ended the conversation at the time. The plan inaugurated by the young wife...

"You are quite sure, Carrie, that you haven't a leg left you?"

"No, but half a dollar a day has, with a little extra deposit now and then."

"The quarter and half dollars of the husband were not the only occasion that the tin box received."

"I am very well aware that what you say is true," said his wife, smiling.

Senator Platt on the Tariff.

On Saturday, Senator Platt had occasion to express his views on the tariff in an uncertain manner.

One evening, Charles Lyford came home looking very sad—a rare thing with him.

"What is the matter, Charles?" she asked, cheerfully.

"The matter is, Carrie, that we shall have to economize greatly," he said.

"Anything unfavorable at the works, Charles?"

"I should think there was. I shall be put on half time next week, and I am afraid that even that will fall before long."

Editorial Letter.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10, 1883.

DEAR GAZETTE:

The tariff practically concluded the tariff revision at a quarter past ten Friday night.

The tariff discussion has had another important result and although a political effect, it is nevertheless a great political success.

HON. MARSHALL JEWELL.

"Dens ad qui optima." The death of Marshall Jewell has thrown a tinge of sadness over the entire country.

The House committee on patents has authorized Mr. Vance to prepare a bill to amend section 4,887 of the revised statutes.

The first fruits of Gen. Walker's return to the Census Bureau is the issuance of the 1800 paged Compendium, with other volumes to immediately follow.

A thousand copies of the new edition of the Philadelphia, have been received at the treasury.

A dinner was given to Gen. Sherman in honor of his sixty-first birthday at which among other things a Hawley responded to the toast "The Press."

The Young Men's Christian Association Tuesday night. E. H. H. lectured on the length of the human race.

Washington lodge of Free Masons, of Alexandria, will anticipate their centennial anniversary, which occurs on the 25th inst.

Mr. Blaine is to write a book, a sort of political memoir, which will contain a history of the public men of 1861 and 1862.

The announcement of the death of Marshall Jewell, was received here this morning with universal expressions of surprise.

The tariff bill has brought up many distinguished Connecticut visitors to the past week.

"Something from the City."

The fact that Patrick O'Hara's watch lost near Union school house on the night of the 5th of January, was found there four weeks later by a man named Hart, is evidence that the pupils of that school, and the people of the neighborhood are honestly attached to study and business.

The reconstruction of Putnam House being bulged front wall has commenced. Bogardus and Smith of the City Council are looking after it.

Mr. Francis Dorrill's bill for a public act relating to the protection of rail, foot and pack as a city paper has introduced the other day by Senator Baker, is likely to become law.

Mr. F. W. Schulte of the town of Groenbaltshaur in Westphalia, Prussia, a brother of the murdered Schulte, asks the Legislature for power to sell real estate near Roton Hill, valued at $2,000. The murder took place on this property.

It is said, since two scholars from Westport carried off the honors in certain classes, at the Union School a system of what may be called slight-of-hand record marking has been introduced in favor of city pupils, and the object being to advance home talent whetted it is desiring to not.

Mr. J. Mag. Drophy, who has been in Bridgeport jail times enough during the past 15 years to claim part of the institution as his home, was on the way thence Tuesday, on his way to New York City, when he dropped here the official letter the lady in the waiting room while he went outside to preserve the peace, strengthen the license law, or help sell the revenue from tobacco.

At the annual meeting of the Norwalk Lock Company, on Wednesday, Feb. 7, B. F. Libby, E. Hill, W. H. Brown, P. G. Boyer, J. Hill, W. H. Heard and C. H. R. R. were elected directors for the year ensuing.

DEAR GAZETTE:

The tariff practically concluded the tariff revision at a quarter past ten Friday night.

The tariff discussion has had another important result and although a political effect, it is nevertheless a great political success.
