CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

REV R. E. DANFORTH PREACHES HIS FINAL SERMON AS PASTOR.

An audience which filled the house and overflowed to the galleries was present at the Congregational church, Sunday morning, to hear Rev R. E. Danforth's last sermon as pastor of the church. He chose for his text, Psalm 34: 8. "O taste and see that the Lord is good, Blessed is the man that trusteth in Him." There are actual spiritual foods that will nourish our souls and build them up. Living with God is good for any man. Once a person's eyes are open to spiritual things he finds joy in the unselfish life. The great question is where flows the main stream of the river of our lives. If we have tasted and found God good, it runs into the great river of God's love. Far too many of us, it is feared, have the main stream of our lives flowing toward selfishness and self-love. Let us seek within our hearts what God seeks. He knows where the main stream of our life is tending. Is it not well that we should pause and examine our heart? Is the river of our life flowing toward God, or is it toward self? When the Lord is with you no man is feared, for the God-filled life is the powerful life. There are two forms of courage, the physical and moral. The moral courage is a rarer quality. Are we ready to sacrifice for righteousness? Yet we have not a complete courage if we have not God within us. Before the sermon Miss Agnes E. Platt sang a beautiful solo.

The attendance, Sunday, at the session of the Congregational Sunday school was 101, the largest number since the first Sunday in January, when just 101 were present.

A picnic under the auspices of the Congregational church and Sunday school will be held, August 28, at Lakeside.

Rev R. E. Danforth and family will leave about the 23d for their new home in Ann Arbor, Mich.

SHERWOOD S. THOMPSON.

A PROMINENT CITIZEN OF NEW HAVEN, HIS DEATH OCCURS, LAST WEEK WEDNESDAY.

Sherwood S. Thompson, police commissioner and one of the best known and most respected residents of New Haven, died at his home, 163 York street, at 5.30 o'clock, last week Wednesday morning. Recently he has been frequently mentioned as Republican candidate for mayor in the coming election, but it is said that when the matter had been mentioned to him he said that it was impossible on account of his health. At the time of the changing of the police commission in 1901, Mr Thompson was appointed by Mayor Studley on June 24, 1901, to fill an unexpired term, ending July 1, 1902. At the expiration of that term he was permanently appointed for three years, being re-appointed for a similar term on July 1, 1905. His present term would have expired on July 1, of next year. On July 6, 1905, Commissioner Thompson was unanimously elected president of the board, and was similarly re-elected on July 8, 1904, for the term ending June 30, 1905. During his term of office as police commissioner, Mr Thompson has served on the efficiency, finance and supplies committees, and he has always done his duty faithfully and well. He was a member of the supplies committee at the time of his death. Sherwood Stratton Thompson was born in New Haven, November 14, 1844, and attended the Webster school. He was only six years of age when his father died, and he was obliged to go to work at the age of 15, when he entered the dry goods store of S. L. Smith as clerk; he slept on the counter nights. Here he continued for a period of about two years, when the Civil War broke out, and at the age of 17, in 1862, he enlisted in Company A, 27th C. V. During his term of service he was promoted to corporal and his entire war record was most creditable. He having participated in a number of most important engagements. When his term of enlistment expired at the end of nine months, he returned to New Haven and engaged in the baking business with S. S. Twitchell, under the name of Twitchell & Thompson, on York street, where the place is now located. It was an old business, established in 1829. Upon the death of Mr Twitchell, in 1874, Mr Thompson assumed entire control, under the firm name of S. S. Thompson & Co., which is the style of the firm name to-day. Mr Thompson having been the sole owner at the time of his death. The business has grown, under the wise and careful management of Mr Thompson, until it is regarded as the finest and most modern bakery in New England. He built a large brick factory, some time ago, and equipped it with all the most modern machinery, part of which are inventions of his own, and the firm has been doing a very large wholesale business. Mr Thompson's first wife was Mary J. Blair, by whom he had one daughter, Nellie B., who married Henry L. Pardee of New Haven and now resides at 896 Elm street of that city. On December 24, 1878, Mr Thompson married Ellen Louise Sanford of Newtown. By this marriage there are one son, Paul Sanford Thompson of 157 York street, New Haven. Politically Commissioner Thompson was a republican, and he has always taken a live interest in this city, politically, socially and religiously. He served as councilman two years, alderman and acting mayor, police commissioner two years, member of the board of education one year, and then as police commissioner. He was a member of Admiral Foote Post, G. A. R.; the Army and Navy club, Union League, Young Men's Republican club, New Haven Colony Historical Society, Sons of the American Revolution, Waltonian club, Chamber of Commerce, and of the Founders' and Patriots' association. Fraternally he has been identified with Harmony lodge, I. O. O. F., since January 2, 1867; Hiram lodge, No. 1, A. F. & A. M., since November 22, 1866; Frank lin chapter, R. A. M., since November 7, 1871; Harmony Council, R. & S. M.; New Haven Commandery, Knights Templar, since December 15, 1871; the Mystic Shrine, since December, 1899, and Israel Putnam lodge, A. O. U. W., since March 8, 1888. In religious faith he was an Episcopalian and he took a deep interest in all church and charitable work. For many years he was a vestryman of Trinity P. E. church. Commissioner Thompson was a courteous, kind-hearted gentleman; his death is a loss to the entire city and state, and the heartfelt sympathy of the community will be extended to the bereaved family.—[Leader.]

The law passed by the Legislature will make it necessary for the hunter of birds and quadrupeds to take out a license. If the hunter is a "bona fide resident" of the state he will have to pay $1 as a license fee and 10 cents for a recording fee, while every citizen not a resident of the state must pay $10 plus 25 cents, and aliens, whether resident or non-resident, are to pay $15 and an extra 25 cents. Violations of the act will make the violator liable to a fine of from $7 to $50 or imprisonment for not exceeding thirty days, or both. In Newtown the licenses are to be obtained of Town Clerk M. WHAT A WATERBURY PAPER SAYS:

ABOUT THE NEW ASSISTANT PASTOR AT ST. ROSE'S.

Rev Peter C. Dungan, assistant pastor of the Church of the Sacred Heart of this city, is one of the most popular of the local Catholic clergymen. He was formerly at the church of the Sacred Heart in New Haven, and since his appointment to this city, over two years ago, he has made a host of friends. He is the chaplain of the local society of Queen's Daughters, the large benevolent organization among the women of the Catholic church, and his departure from here will be regretted by all of its members. His family resided for years in Watertown, his mother dying there several months ago.—[Waterbury Republican.]

Miss Elsie Burwell of New Haven is the guest of Mr and Mrs Samuel Page, who are pleasantly domiciled at the Todd homestead in the Street for the summer.

"Surprises never come singly." No sooner did The Blue Ribbon Auto & Carriage Co., of Bridgeport finish their special sale of carriages, wagons and harnesses, than they make startling assertion that they will hereafter sell at wholesale prices. This new proposition will mean the saving of substantial sums for those who patronize this wide-awake company. Their entire stock being new and desirable, it will also mean that those who buy here will get the best for the least money. It certainly will be interesting to see how such a bold plan will work.

Miss Edna Mc Namara of Danbury is the guest of her aunt, Mrs Thomas Carey.

G. N. Clarke of Nichols is sending out free samples of his celebrated Vegetable Liver Pills. People who are troubled with biliousness, constipation, indigestion, headache, dizziness, etc., should try them as they cure the above ailments where other pills only give temporary relief. See his advertisement in another column.

Life's Farm at Branchville, Conn., on the N. Y. N. H. & H. Railroad, about 50 miles from New York, is a large country place, deeded to Life by the late Edwin Gilbert some 15 years ago. The commodious three-story French roof house has been converted into suitable dormitories, dining-rooms, etc., for the prosecution of the work, and various outbuildings have been added. The grounds comprise about 14 acres, with a large brook running through them, affording endless amusement to the youthful visitors. A sufficient force of caretakers, under the supervision of Mr and Mrs Mohr, insures the best of care for the children. During the 20 years they have been engaged in this work they have never lost a child or had any serious accident or illness at the Farm. The work began in 1887 by sending a few children to the country the latter part of the summer. Now over 200 children are entertained at a time, and in the 20 years over 26,000 children have had a fortnight's outing in the country. Expenses have been reduced to a minimum. Three dollars will cover an entire fortnight for a child at the Farm. A glance at a returning party and at one going to the Farm shows the good accomplished. Fresh air combined with good food, and plenty of it, is a wonderful transformer. The children are taken from the city missions and the tenement house district, some from missions in Brooklyn and made from the poor of the East Side; in fact, no needy child is refused, unless for lack of room. Our season is from about June 20th until school opens in September, and visitors are invited for any day during that term. The kindness of their many friends, who have made this work possible, is heartily appreciated. Additional contributions are earnestly solicited, as the charity cannot be continued without money. Remittances may be made payable to Life's Fresh Air Fund, 17 West 31st street, New York.

Clark Peck of Hawleyville had a nice porker poisoned, one night last week. Mr Peck found some Paris Green in the swill barrel which caused the pig's death.

C. H. BOOTH & BENTLEY CO.,
BANK STREET, NEW MILFORD, CONN.New Milford.*BI-CENTENNIAL ECHOES.New Orleans, La., July 11, 1907.To the Editor: I desire to extend congratulations to the committee of the Bi-Centennial celebration that took place at New Milford in June.
As I have just received a copy of your valuable paper from my sister, Clara E. Simons, who seems to be a subscriber for the same, I find it gives an elaborate account of the great celebration.I wish to express, as being one of the last probably to express myself upon the matter, I will say last but not least, "allow me to mingle my heart lest good wishes for the admirable work of the committee. I must say, joy to my heart, is the news of the advancement of the town of my childhood. Once a student of the town, next a soldier from the town; I feel an interest therein. I therefore wish the public spirited men of the town of New Milford, a Godspeed on in their good work, because working for things that are vital to the soul, I believe they can do much that will be the very greatest value to the cause of good citizenship; for in the last analysis is the fundamental requisite of good citizenship from the standpoint of the country is that a man should have the very qualities which make him of real value in the home, in the church, in all the higher relationship of life.My greatest pleasure is to write to a paper that gives the details of the town of my childhood. To let those of my acquaintance and schoolmates who have grown old, and many others who may think I am dead know that the colored volunteer of the Rebellion of 1861-5 is yet alive and fine as of old.
And when the writer departs this life let my grave be numbered among those of my comrades who lie dreaming here. And in conclusion allow me to say to the public spirited men of New Milford: May life deal gently and kindly with them; may the cloud of adversity never obscure the sun of their prosperity; and may their life journey be through pleasant paths and loving lands, and let all their constituents remember and amid the impediments with which corruption may oppose, and the dejections to which disappointments may oppress them; let it be remembered they have acquired a name that will be cherished by the future generations long after they have been enrolled among the inhabitants of Heaven.—(George A. Green.DR BRAGAW TO CHANGE HIS OF-

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Mrs. R. Z. Hawkins and son, Stanley, had a narrow escape from a serious accident, last week Tuesday, while driving to the depot at Southford. As they were near Mr. Davis' store at the corner at Southford Center their horse shied at something, throwing them both out. Mrs. Hawkins landed between the front wheel and the body of the wagon and was so caught she could not move for a few minutes. Her son, Stanley, in his fall hit his mother's body and slid over the wheels to the ground and in less time than it takes to tell it was at the horse's head and held the horse until his mother could free herself from her prison, which she was able to do in a few minutes. She was quite badly bruised and shaken up but escaped without any broken bones. Stanley escaped with just a little shaking up and is to be commended for his presence of mind in getting hold of the horse's head so quickly and holding it until his mother was out of danger. It was a narrow escape from what might have been a serious accident.

YOUR deposit in the savings bank returns you only from three and one-half to four per cent. without any increase in the value of the principal. Now just consider the following facts:

This country is experiencing an era of prosperity never before known. The crops have never been so bounteous, the manufacturing industries never so busy, help never so scarce, the cost of living never so high. The current rates of interest for the use of money have not been so high in years—the best commercial paper commanding six per cent.—and these high rates for money are likely to continue for some time.

With all this prosperity and high rates for money, how much more interest are you getting now from your money in the savings bank than you did five years ago?

If you could find a broker in whose judgment and integrity you had absolute confidence, would you not consider, right now, very favorably, an investment of part of your money that would net you six per cent. with absolute safety, the principal of which would increase in value from year to year?

ETERNITY WITH OR WITHOUT GOD.

BY REV. A. LOCKE.

Beloved have you ever thought of the "Awefulness" of spending Eternity without God?

No God to satisfy the longings of an aching heart? No Christ to pacify the prolonged and awful smart?

No Holy Spirit to give Thee light and hope amid the awful gloom?

But the absence of the Triune God, Oh awful doom!

O Christ! I turn before it to be too late, O Father God in Him Thou wilt open now the gates.

To this poor sinner stained and dyed with sin I bow my head and hear Thee say:

"Come in, for I have mercy on thee, and I will in no wise cast out." John 1:12.

"Blessed are they that wash their robes that they may have the right to the Tree of Life and may enter in by the gate into the City." Rev. 22:14-15. R.

NEWPORT STYLES.

Outing Costumes. Yachting Suits.

Garnitures, Panama Hats, Rubber-soled Shoes, Tennis Suits, Waterproof Coats, Lingerie, Dresses.

In arranging a summer's outfit, the girl of to-day gives more time and thought to her various outing costumes than to her full-dress attire; although in view of the exquisite lingerie and lace dresses that grace evening entertainments, it cannot be said that the latter is neglected. In this gay sojourn yachting suits are of the first importance, and sensible styles predominate; plaited skirts, with tight fitting or cutaway jackets, or else box coats, trimming being an individual matter.

The cardinal point is, that the yachting suit should be white.

TRIMMINGS.

Fancy silk braid, embroidery to any extent, or black velvet collar and cuffs with handsome buttons comprise styles favored by the fashionable contingent.

The new Panama hat turned up in any way that suits the wearer, and a plain hat-band of the color of the favorite yacht, is a sufficient garniture or fringed scarf completes with fashion's requirements. Soft felts are also in order or the late fashion have the advantage of being cool.

Yachting and tennis shoes are about the same, rubber-soled, whether or not of the Oxford style.

TENNIS SUITS.

As tennis is a favorite diversion here, and linen suits are in the majority, made either with a short jacket, or blouse waist so as to leave the arms perfectly free. Here again, embroidery may be used to almost unlimited extent.

For bathing suits at "The Pier," taffeta silk of brilliant colors in plaids or checks, is the leading fabric. Polka dotted stuff, or mohair in white and black, is also worn, by persons of quiet tastes. Blouse and skirt are made in one, gathered at the waist, and trousers or tights are separate. Square necks and short sleeves prevail, trimmed with white beads. Taken altogether, the bathing suit of the present is a gay, and sometimes not a very modest-looking affair.

WATERPROOF COATS.

The Newport visitor who has observed the evolution of the waterproof coat for several seasons past, will agree that it has now reached its culminating point. A stylish rain and motor coat is an indispensable adjunct to a summer outfit. It is evident that the Priestly Cravenette represents "the survival of the fittest" in waterproof materials. Others have come and gone but the newest of these fabrics are unquestionably the choice of the elite for the smart, trim, becoming yet practical waterproof coat, or suit of the season. Care however must be taken to see that the circular trademark Cravenette appears in some manner, as imitations are but too frequent.

LINGERIE DRESSES.

A simple yet charming lingerie dress worn at a private house on Bellevue Avenue, was made throughout of alternating rows of narrow tucks, and embroidered bands, in circular shape, which suited the slender girl-wearer to perfection, but absolutely prohibitive to a stout person. An amethyst or sapphire suspended by a chain around the neck was the only ornament, and in this connection it may be mentioned, that nothing in jewelry is so fashionable as a topaz or amethyst cross.

ANOTHER LINGERIE DRESS

Worn at the Casino by a stylish young matron, had an embroidered ruffle with scalloped edge, at the bottom of the skirt, above which were six-inch squares of the dress material, embroidered at the centers and edged by German Val lace. These were set on the points and touching, forming a beautiful heading to the embroidered ruffle. Rows of lace insertion from the waist were turned into points, which were carried about an inch deep into squares. Singular ornamentation is disposed on the waist front, and a belt of embroidery did not injure the Princess effect. The short sleeves were composed of embroidered ruffles, and rows of insertion were on a sort of second sleeve, appearing just below the ruffle.

So numerous are box coats and cutaway jackets, that the question arises, is the Eton to pass out of style?

Brookfield's Celebration.

THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH 150 YEARS OLD.

New Chapel Open for Use.

OUTLINE PROGRAM ANNOUNCED.

The celebration of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the First Congregational church of Brookfield will take place at the church in Brookfield Center on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, August 16, 17 and 18. As long ago as December, 1905, the church began to lay its plans for the event, and at that time appointed an anniversary committee. The attitude of this body has been from the beginning one of generous hospitality. Though several hundred invitations have been sent to those who would probably not otherwise hear of the affair, the committee wishes it distinctly understood that the celebration of the church interests involves those of the whole town, and therefore gives a cordial and general invitation to all Brookfield and its friends to attend all the functions. The exercises of each day will be made more pleasing by the frequent musical numbers given by The Brookfield Summer School of Music, under the direction of Prof. Herbert W. Greene. This will be especially true of the closing service of Sunday evening, which will consist of an elaborate musical program, concluding with Rossini's sacred cantata, Stabat Mater.

The program in outline follows: Friday evening at 7.30 address of welcome by the chairman of the committee, Clarence E. Vroman, to be followed by four other addresses on cognate subjects: (1) on behalf of former members, by Attorney Wilson H. Pierce of Waterbury; (2) on behalf of former pastors, by Rev Cyrus W. Francis of Hartford; (3) on behalf of the congregation, by Rev Harry C. Meserve of Danbury; (4) on behalf of the non-members, by Rev Leslie Willis Sprague of Brookfield.

Saturday has been set aside by the committee as "Old Home Day," most of the forenoon being left unoccupied by a definite program, to afford opportunity for the renewal of old associations and friendships. At 11.45 all will gather in and about the new chapel for a collation and a social hour following at the tables. At 2.30 comes one of the chief features of the occasion—the delivery of the historical address, by Miss Emily C. Hawley. Her discourse will deal with the history of both church and the town, since they were in their inception so intimately associated. This will be followed by greetings from Danbury, New Milford and Newtown, given respectively by Col J. Moss Ives, Mr. C. B. Marsh and Rev Otis W. Barker.

Sunday morning will be devoted to the laying of the corner stone of the new chapel by the senior deacon, Alfred Somers, at ten o'clock followed by morning worship, with a sermon by Rev Joel S. Ives of Hartford, and the sacrament of The Lord's supper. The closing services, to the musical nature of which reference has already been made, will take place in the evening, at 7.30. A notable feature of this exercise will be the final address, by the pastor, Rev Marion L. Burton.

For twenty years the church has entertained hopes for a chapel; now these are realized in a building sufficiently completed to be used in connection with this anniversary. The formal dedication will occur later in the year.

An element of permanence has been added to this sesqui-centennial celebration through the preparation and publication, by Miss Emily C. Hawley, of a book of one hundred and seventy-five pages, to which she has given months of careful research. This volume, bound in cloth boards, and containing fifteen chapters and an addendum, with many full-page half-tone cuts, and the Brooks family coat of arms printed in four colors, can now be ordered of Mr Gerald B. Curtis, Brookfield Center, and will be delivered at the close of the historical session on Saturday. The low price of one-dollar (which must be paid before the book can be delivered) will not tend to cover the actual expense of publication. Only a limited edition has been printed. As a memento of this important celebration, and a trustworthy record of all early events connected with the organization of the church and of the town, this book will become more valuable with every passing year.—(Signed, Frederick S. Curtis.

Brookfield's Celebration.

THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH 150 YEARS OLD.

New Chapel Open for Use.

OUTLINE PROGRAM ANNOUNCED.

The celebration of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the First Congregational church of Brookfield will take place at the church in Brookfield Center on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, August 16, 17 and 18. As long ago as December, 1905, the church began to lay its plans for the event, and at that time appointed an anniversary committee. The attitude of this body has been from the beginning one of generous hospitality. Though several hundred invitations have been sent to those who would probably not otherwise hear of the affair, the committee wishes it distinctly understood that the celebration of the church interests involves those of the whole town, and therefore gives a cordial and general invitation to all Brookfield and its friends to attend all the functions. The exercises of each day will be made more pleasing by the frequent musical numbers given by The Brookfield Summer School of Music, under the direction of Prof. Herbert W. Greene. This will be especially true of the closing service of Sunday evening, which will consist of an elaborate musical program, concluding with Rossini's sacred cantata, Stabat Mater.

The program in outline follows: Friday evening at 7.30 address of welcome by the chairman of the committee, Clarence E. Vroman, to be followed by four other addresses on cognate subjects: (1) on behalf of former members, by Attorney Wilson H. Pierce of Waterbury; (2) on behalf of former pastors, by Rev Cyrus W. Francis of Hartford; (3) on behalf of the congregation, by Rev Harry C. Meserve of Danbury; (4) on behalf of the non-members, by Rev Leslie Willis Sprague of Brookfield.
